Viewing cable 06PORTAUPRINCE559, PREVAL IN WASHINGTON: SEEKING STATUS

If you are new to these pages, please read an introduction on the structure of a cable as well as how to discuss them with others. See also the FAQs

Understanding cables

Every cable message consists of three parts:

- The top box shows each cables unique reference number, when and by whom it originally was sent, and what its initial classification was.
- The middle box contains the header information that is associated with the cable. It includes information about the receiver(s) as well as a general subject.
- The bottom box presents the body of the cable. The opening can contain a more specific subject, references to other cables (browse by origin to find them) or additional comment. This is followed by the main contents of the cable: a summary, a collection of specific topics and a comment section.

To understand the justification used for the classification of each cable, please use this WikiSource article as reference.

Discussing cables

If you find meaningful or important information in a cable, please link directly to its unique reference number. SUBJECT: PREVAL IN WASHINGTON: SEEKING STATUS

Classified By: DCM Douglas M. Griffiths for reasons 1.4(b).

¶1. (C) President elect Rene Garcia Preval's goal for his visit to the White House and State Department is to send an unequivocal message to Haitians at home and observers abroad that the USG is fully committed to supporting his government.

He believes that a meeting with President Bush (and the accompanying photo-op) would be the most tangible demonstration of that commitment. Beyond that, he will bring a large delegation of advisors and supporters from various sectors to witness the show of support he expects to receive from his interlocutors. Preval has frequently communicated his firm desire to maintain close relations with the United States, most notably during his March 12 meeting in Santiago, Chile with Secretary Rice. We should reassure him that we want him to succeed, and stand ready to supply the tools to help him institutionalize transparent and democratic institutions. Preval has declined invitations to visit France, Cuba, and Venezuela in order to visit Washington first. Preval has close personal ties to Cuba, having received prostate cancer treatment there, but has stressed to the Embassy that he will manage relations with Cuba and Venezuela solely for the benefit of the Haitian people, and not based on any ideological affinity toward those governments.

¶2. (C) In the period between his election and his inauguration, which he now expects to occur in mid-May, Preval has concentrated on bolstering Haiti's international support and in his words "appearing presidential," while avoiding sensitive domestic issues before his government is in place. Preval will cover a well-rehearsed set of points both with the USG and in his meetings at the UN and the OAS. He has consistently stated that his priorities are strengthening Haiti's institutions, particularly those that decentralize political power, and the encouragement of private investment and job creation. Preval has also stressed the importance of fighting corruption and implementing police reform. The Ambassador has encouraged Preval's advisors to communicate his vision for Haiti's future as a prosperous democratic society, rather than present a laundry list of requests for assistance.

¶3. (C) That said, Preval has clear goals for the visit. He wants to bury once and for all the suspicion in Haiti that the United States is wary of him. He is seeking to enhance his status domestically and internationally with a successful visit to the United States. In his frequent meetings with us, he has repeatedly stressed that he wants to move Haiti from reliance on development assistance, to growth through private investment - both foreign and domestic. He wants international development assistance to facilitate that transition through investment in Haiti's weak institutions, in education and in agriculture. Investment is the key to employment generation, which Preval insists is the only way to build a more stable society. For team Preval, access to the U.S. market would boost employment generation. Preval will push preferential trade legislation on his trip to the United States, and will be accompanied by a number of private sector representatives. He will likely reiterate the issue of combating drug trafficking. Preval believes that he had only lukewarm U.S. cooperation on drugs during his first mandate. We have reassured him of our full commitment, but he will be looking for U.S. planes and boats in the complete absence of Haitian resources. Preval has also repeatedly underscored the need for skilled advisors to re-build Haitian institutions. We are ready to commit existing USAID funds to support him.

14. (C) Preval has decisively broken with former President Aristide and the Famni Lavalas party. He has asked all of this international supporters to help make clear to the government of South Africa that he does not welcome Aristide's return to Haiti. (Note: We do not have a reliable account of Preval's meeting with President Mbeki in Santiago. End Note) At home, Preval has stuck, when asked, to a constitutional formulation that Aristide is legally allowed to return, but has otherwise steered clear of the subject. While Aristide's militant supporters may still attempt to foment disorder on his behalf, we believe that the with the support of MINUSTAH the Preval government will have the means to control these elements and the vast majority of Haitian's now expect Preval himself to meet their expectations for improved living conditions and a new direction for Haiti.
